118	Health Education - educating families and individuals about proper health care and ways to improve family health	2/1/2019 2:53 PM
119	There are quite a few breakdowns affecting the general health of Americans including many environmental factors that effect the safety of food, water, air, and just about every line-item in the list above. Swelling social problems are the root cause that not only make appropriate care impossible for many to receive, but also are creating the need for higher levels of care within families and communities. Huge spikes in rates of drug and alcohol dependence, addictions to food/sex/gambling, homelessness, and huge jumps in suicide rates have been clearly shown the statistics published by the Centers for Disease Control, yet no-one is looking at the root causes because they are afraid to, and/or are responsible.	2/1/2019 2:45 PM
